Say airport price high, to condemn Crosby land

Condemnation proceedings to secure the L.O. Crosby, Jr., property on which the Hancock County Airport is to be constructed were authorized Monday by the board of supervisors.

The eminent domain suit was directed on the recommendation of the port and harbor commission which said it had been unable to negotiate a satisfactory purchase price for the 530.21 acres held by Crosby.

Otha Reister, commission secretary, said Crosby wanted

$500 an acre for the 410 acres within the airport's buffer zone and $15,000 an acre for the balance which is just outside the buffer area.

On the port body's recommendation, the supervisors also employed the port attorneys, Gerald C. Cox and Michael D. Haas, to examine the title to the land for the airport project. Their fee was fixed at 1 per cent of the acquisition price.

The overall airport project will require $90.75 million, it is to be located to the west of Rt. 603 (Kila Road) between the Jordan River and the projected route of Interstate 10.

Bids were called for opening at 10 a.m. June 1 for the 3.5 mile access road to the port commission's industrial complex at Mulatto Bayou. This is the third contract of the west end development project.

Supervisors ratified two other recommendations from the port commission. One is a change order in the hydraulic dredging contract with Bauer Dredging Co. covering building dykes. It authorizes monthly payment to the sub-contractor doing this phase of the work and was recommended by Michael Baker, Jr., consulting engineers, to save 30 to 60 days in completion of the contract.

The other was a $1,540 bill from Baker for survey work at

HEW sets Tuesday Bay case

Bay St. Louis Separate Municipal School District was notified Monday that a hearing had been set for 10 a.m. next Monday, May 8, in Washington, D.C., on its objection to Health, Education and Welfare Department's decision for non-compliance with the directives of that agency. The hearing will be before an HEW examiner.

On Feb. 14, HEW cited the school system for non-compliance and threatened to cut off federal aid. The board then

Clapp named to HNC slot

Robert B. Clapp, Bay St. Louis native, was appointed principal for the Hancock North Central Attendance Center when the county school trustees met Monday.

The prexy posts of school superintendent and principal of the high school division will be combined when Clapp takes over July 1 on a three-year contract at $8,000 per annum.

The appointment fills the vacancies created by the resignations of Chester Blalock as superintendent and J.W. Rodriguez as high school chief. A successor remains to be chosen for Leonard Fuller as elementary principal.

Clapp has been at Vard High School since 1958 and is now top administrator there. He holds AA certification in physical education and as attendance center principal. A 1951 graduate of Bay High School, he attended Pearl River Junior College and Louisiana State University and holds bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Southern Mississippi. He taught at Southern on a graduate fellowship in 1957-58 and did graduate work at Birmingham Southern College and Ole Miss in biology and botany on National Science Foundation grants in 1961 and 1963. Nominated for the outstanding citizen award of Jackson County this year, he is married and has four children.

Annette Netto was named secretary at HNC to succeed Mrs. Margaret Gibson who resigned to take another position.

Elected to the faculty at the Pearl River school were Mrs. Mabel Benner and Mrs. Naomi Star.

Mrs. Donald Bernona was re-elected secretary at Gulfview with Mrs. Milton Stoufflet, lunchroom manager and a stage of Mrs. Elma Lader and Mrs. Monroe Garcia, janitors will be Mrs. George O'Farrell and Glover Green.

The board recessed until 7 p.m. Monday.

Tell court beat shift is amended

"Arbitrary, without the authority of the court and, in fact, in defiance" of the court's ruling is the description of the April 10 action of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors contained in a supplemental complaint filed today by Gulfport Attorney Lydon Stason in the Hancock County redistricting suit, Martindale et al. vs. Dean et al.

On April 10 the supervisors voted not to run at large but to run from the districts set out in the running at large proposal submitted last fall to the U.S. Special District Court hearing the case. In the supplemental complaint filed today plaintiffs request an early determination by the court in order to avoid "confusion and chaos" because of the June 6 deadline for qualifying of candidates for nominations in the primaries.

On Monday Walter James Phillips, on behalf of the defendants, filed a pleading in the suit seeking the court's approval for the April 10 action by the supervisors. In a separate motion plaintiffs have asked that this pleading of the defendants be dismissed.

Landfill for garbage, beach road rail eyed

Establishment of a sanitary landfill and the status of the guard rail in the beach road repair plans occupied the board of supervisors Monday.

Wayne Allmon, county commissioner, renewed his plea to halt indiscriminate dumping of garbage and trash, suggesting the county combine its efforts with the municipalities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland. "We are at the point of no return," Allmon declared. He suggested a landfill or incinerator.

Bay Mayor John A. Scallio said he thought the cost of two or three landfills would be prohibitive and wondered if the recent annexation by Bay St. Louis and Waveland, resulting in twice a week garbage collection in the densely populated area outside the beach, would not minimize the problem.

However, Scallio concurred, a sanitary landfill would be a way to reclaim land such as the marshy area at Jackson Ridge. Private owners might want to use this reclaimed fill also. He complained of the process, which is not distributed to neighbors, and both Scallio and Waveland Mayor Garfield Ladner agreed to look into outside equipment and report back to the supervisors next Monday.

Mayor Ladner and John Mayward, Waveland Beach residents, joined Board 1 supervisors N.E.

Dean in questioning the county engineer about omission of a guard rail from plans for reconstruction of the beach road damaged 18 months ago in Hurricane Betsy.

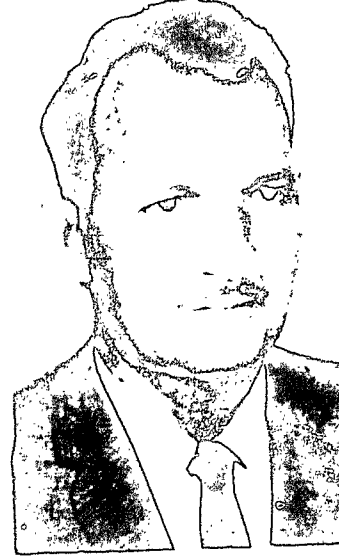

Dean displayed a copy of a letter from F.C. Turner, director of the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads, replying to inquiries from Edward Rowley of the Beachfront Property Owners Association, about the guard rail. The letter said the Washington office had not seen the plans and indicated it could willing to make all necessary repairs to the hurricane damage. George Wior, county engineer, indicated the decision to eliminate the guard rail from the project was made at the state level and contended Turner's letter was "entirely different from reality." He said the state did not have the money to reconstruct the beach road. He said the state did not have the money to reconstruct the beach road.

The engineer said the plans had been sent to Washington because of concern to make the project a $200,000 project. He suggested taking the project to the state and requesting a loan for a rail.

Tell primary plans

Formal announcements were issued this week for three candidates in the August Democratic primary, two of them the first to seek offices in Beat 5.

Chester Favre, county civil defense director, made known his intention to run for sheriff and tax collector. That beats the announced list for that post to date.

Russell J. Elliott announced for Beat 5 supervisor. A former justice of the peace in this supervisory district, he was in the run-off primary for supervisor four years ago. Elliott had been active in a number of civic organizations.

Running for Beat 5 controllable to Pete Noto who is active in the Waveland auxiliary police and served as a deputy sheriff during the administration of Gerald V. Price and John Egloff.

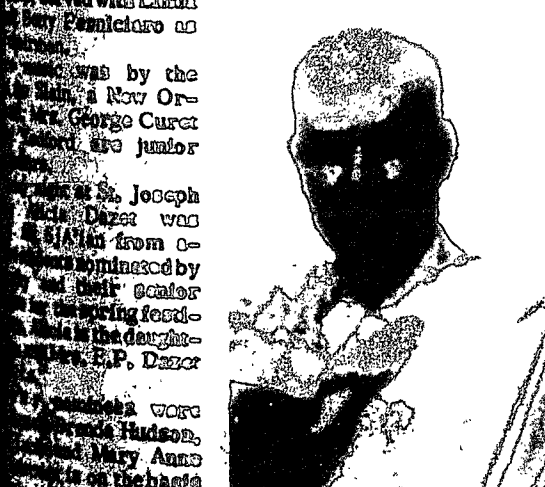

McDonville five qualified for the primary with the Democratic executive committee. They included Wesley Ladner for sheriff-tax collector, Arlio R. Strohn for Beat 1 supervisor, Joseph Crovan for Beat 3 supervisor, and two for Beat 5: Ned Bilbo, the incumbent, in Beat 1 and Pete Noto in 5.

The mile relay team of Lemay, Edward Whavers, Joseph Collins and Lionel Achor, topped the record held by V.C.J. with a 3 minute, 33.2 second effort, the old mark being 3 minutes, 37 seconds.

Other Jones winners were Ivory Gillum, first in the 880, Mitchell Fairley, second and Joseph Collins, third, Lionel Achor was third in the mile. ## FLOYD JONES APPEARS HAPPY AS HERE HANDS HIM KEYS TO NEWLY PURCHASED CHEV

I live in Ocean Springs and commute daily to the Planting. I drive a 1966 Chevrolet. I changed around in the 1960s. I bought the best price at the Chevrolet Dealership in Bay St. Louis. I am very happy, but have the additional advantage of a car and service until 9:00 P.M.

My salesman and now friend Herb Boren really is to their marks. "The only dealer we miss are the don't know cheaters."
